Semantic and resilient-native communication in the 6G era

Short Abstract: This talk will provide the latest results in the area of semantic communication and protocol learning. In contrast to communicating raw data, this talk will demonstrate the effectiveness of learning abstractions and world models in enabling robust wireless communication and emerging communication protocols from multi-agent interactions.